

104589 - Blood of nifaas returning on the fortieth day

the question

I gave birth and the bleeding lasted for two weeks, during which it sometimes stopped Then during the next two weeks or so I had some yellow spotting and I saw the sign of purity (tuhr) on the 34th day of nifaas, so I did ghusl and prayed Zuhr, and my husband had intercourse with me, then at 'Asr time I saw some yellowish spots, and two days later I started bleeding again, until the end of the 40 days, when I saw the tuhr so I did ghusl and prayed, but I was still bleeding very slightly. Now since yesterday I have been bleeding continually and I do not know whether I am in a state of purity or still in nifaas? What is the ruling on the days during which I had the yellowish spotting? Do I have to make up the prayers that I did not offer during those days or was it nifaas?.

Detailed answer

Praise be to Allah.

If a woman bleeds because of giving birth, then she is in nifaas, and remains so until she sees the tuhr or completes 40 days.

Based on that, what happened to you before you saw the tuhr was all nifaas, even if on some days you saw yellowish discharge, because yellowish and brownish discharge, so long as it is connected to nifaas, is part of it, so you do not have to pray during that period.

Shaykh Muhammad al-'Uthaymeen (may Allah have mercy on him) was asked about a woman who saw the blood of nifaas for two weeks, then it gradually turned into a thick yellowish substance, and continued like that until the end of the 40 days. Does this substance, which came after the blood, come under the ruling on nifaas or not?

He replied: This yellowish discharge or mucus, so long as no clear sign of purity appeared in it, comes under the same ruling as the bleeding, and she is not pure until she is rid of it. End quote from Fataawa al-Mar'ah al-Muslimah, p. 304.

As for your doing ghusl and praying after you saw the tuhr on the 34th day, it is valid, praise be to Allah, and your husband's having intercourse with you after that is permissible. As for the yellowish discharges that came after that, they were not part of nifaas, because they came after you became pure (tuhr). Abu Dawood narrated in his Sunan (264) in a report which was classed as saheeh by al-Albaani, that Umm 'Atiyyah (may Allah be pleased with her) said: We used not to regard the brownish and yellowish discharge after the tuhr (end of the period) as being of any significance.

Based on that, prayer during these days was obligatory, so if you did not pray, you have to make up those prayers.

As for the resumption of bleeding following that, it is nifaas if it occurred within the 40 days. Al-'Allaamah Ibn Baaz (may Allah have mercy on him) said: If the woman in nifaas becomes pure within 40 days and fasts for a few days, then the bleeding resumes within 40 days, her fast is valid but she has to stop praying and fasting during the days on which the bleeding resumes, because it is nifaas, until she becomes pure or completes 40 days. End quote from Majmoo' Fataawa al-Shaykh Ibn Baaz (4/133).

So long as you saw the tuhr (sign of purity) at the end of the 40 days, then your nifaas had come to an end and your ghusl and prayer were valid. As for the resumption of bleeding after that, this is menses, so long as it does not go beyond the maximum time for menses. Shaykh Ibn 'Uthaymeen (may Allah have mercy on him) said: If the bleeding resumes after 40 days, then it is menses unless it continues beyond the maximum time, in which case she should stop praying, fasting and so on for the duration of her normal menstrual period only. End quote from Majmoo' Fataawa al-Shaykh Ibn 'Uthaymeen (4/289, 290).

Thus you will know that the days when you were bleeding after 40 days are menses, even if this bleeding was interrupted, provided that it did not last longer than the maximum time for menses, which is 15 days.

But if this bleeding was very light, as you say, such as a drop or two, then it is not menses and does not prevent you from praying or having intercourse with your husband, but you have to do wudoo' for each prayer after the time for it begins.

And Allah knows best.
