

107335 - Emission of madhiy does not invalidate the fast

the question

A woman was sexually aroused by her husband during a day of Ramadan, which made her wet. She does not know if she came or if it was something else that came out. She does not know how many days this happened.

Detailed answer

Praise be to Allah.

Firstly:

It is permissible for the spouses to be intimate with one another, so long as they are certain that there will be no emission of maniyy, because of the report narrated by al-Bukhari (1927) and Muslim (1106) from 'Aa'ishah (may Allah be pleased with her) who said: The Messenger of Allah (S) used to kiss and touch (his wife) when he was fasting, but he was the most able of you to control his desire.

If a man is intimate with his wife without having intercourse, then one of the following two scenarios must apply:

1 - That this intimacy leads to emission of maniyy. In this case the fast is invalidated and the one who emitted maniyy must make up that day.

Al-Nawawi (may Allah have mercy on him) said in al-Majmoo' (6/349): If he kisses her or is intimate with her, without having intercourse, or he touches a woman's skin with his hand or otherwise, if he emits maniyy then his fast is invalidated, otherwise it is not. The author of al-Haawi and others narrated that there was scholarly consensus that the fast of one who kisses his wife or is intimate without having intercourse and ejaculates is invalidated. End quote.

Shaykh Ibn ‘Uthaymeen (may Allah have mercy on him) said: If a man is intimate with his wife by touching or kissing the face or touching the private part (without having intercourse) and he ejaculates, then his fast is broken, but if he does not ejaculate then the fast is not broken. End quote.

Al-Sharh al-Mumti’ (6/388).

2 – If that intimacy results in emission of madhiy, in this case the fast is not invalidated.

Shaykh ‘Abd al-‘Azeez ibn Baaz (may Allah have mercy on him) said: If a man kisses his wife and is intimate with her without having intercourse whilst fasting, all of that is permissible and there is nothing wrong with it, because the Prophet (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) used to kiss his wife when he was fasting, and he would be intimate with her whilst he was fasting. But if a man fears that he will fall into that which Allah has forbidden because he is easily aroused, then it is makrooh for him to do that. If he ejaculates then he must refrain from eating and drinking for the rest of the day, and he must make up that fast. But he does not have to offer any expiation according to the majority of scholars. As for madhiy, it does not affect the fast according to the more correct of the two scholarly opinions, because the basic principle is that the fast remains valid and is not invalidated, and because it is too difficult to avoid it. And Allah is the Source of strength. End quote.

Fatawa al-Shaykh Ibn Baz (15/315)

Shaykh Ibn ‘Uthaymeen (may Allah have mercy on him) was asked about a man who was intimate with his wife when he was fasting, and he emitted madhiy; what is the ruling on his fast?

He replied: If a man is intimate with his wife, and he emits madhiy, his fast is still valid, and he does not have to do anything according to the scholarly view which we regard as correct. That is because there is no evidence to suggest that this breaks the fast, and it is not valid to compare it to mani, because it is less than it. This view which we favour is the view of al-Shaafa’i and Abu Haneefah, and it was favoured by Shaykh al-Islam Ibn Taymiyah (may Allah have mercy on him) who said in al-Furoo’: It is more correct. And he said in al-Insaaf: It is the correct view. End quote.

Majmoo'Fataawa Ibn 'Uthaymeen (19/236).

Thirdly:

If a man is confused in this case and is not sure whether what has come out of him is maniy or madhiy, in most cases it is probably madhiy, because madhiy is that which is emitted when one is intimate, and the fast cannot be judged to have been spoiled on the basis of mere conjecture.
