

1825 - Muslim women marrying non-Muslim men in the hope that they may become Muslim

the question

What is the ruling on a Muslim woman marrying a non-Muslim man, especially when she hopes that he will become Muslim after marriage? Many Muslim women claim that they cannot find suitable Muslim men, and that they are faced with the threat of having to commit sin or live in extremely straitened circumstances.

Detailed answer

Praise be to Allah.

It is forbidden for Muslim women to marry non-Muslim men, according to the Qur'aan, the Sunnah and the consensus of the scholars (ijmaa') (see question # 689) . If such a marriage takes place, it is invalid, it does not have any impact upon inheritances according to sharee'ah, and any children born from this union are illegitimate. Hoping that the husband may become Muslim does not alter this ruling in the slightest.
